How to Use This Book

This book is designed to motivate and provide quick and relevant writing prompts/ideas for students in your class who find it difficult to get their writing engines going in the journal or creative writing classes. These are the students who consequently complain, procrastinate, and get distracted more often than those who are always ready to write. When encouraged to begin the writing task, the first communicated reason for not doing anything is most often the familiar, “I can’t think of anything to write.” Well, those days are over!

WHAT TO DO:

1. Print several copies of 1000 Quick Writing Ideas.
2. Hand them out to reluctant writers or to every student in the class. You may, want to create more permanent copies of these sheets that could then be re-used without making additional copies (saves paper).
3. Store the sheets in folders, binders, or duo tangs to prevent physical damage and keep them well organized and accessible (store all binders in one central area of classroom). It is not recommended that all 1000 ideas be handed out at once. Try 100 or 200 at a time.
4. Students highlight (if given a personal copy of sheets), collect, and make a list of topics of interest that could be used in personal writing, and record the selected topics at the front or back of their journal books.
5. At the beginning of the journal or creating writing period encourage students (or give the option) to dig into, and use some of the 1000 ideas.

THE WRITING PROCESS

STAGES OF WRITING

BEFORE WRITING

(brainstorm & discuss to generate ideas; select a topic, decide the purpose & audience; organize your ideas)

MAKE A DRAFT

(write a 1st draft, not perfect or final, will contain mistakes, do not worry about small details... just write!)

REVISE

(consider content, focus and organize your ideas and then improve what you wrote, make it clearer, change words & information)

EDIT

(“the details” - correct and improve spelling, punctuation, grammar, clarity of text; add or take away information, fix mistakes)

PUBLISH

(write a final draft, presenting to public, determine how your work will be presented, make it look good!)

6 SPELLING RULES

DOUBLE THE FINAL CONSONANT

- 1. When adding a suffix beginning with a vowel to any words ending in a single consonant preceded by a vowel - double the final consonant. (Example: mop + ing = mopping, begin + ing = beginning)

DROP THE SILENT “e”

- 2. When adding a suffix beginning with a vowel to a word ending in a silent “e” - drop the silent “e”. (Example: fame + ous = famous, bite + ing = biting, come + ing = coming)

KEEP THE SILENT “e”

- 3 When adding the suffix, able, ance, or ous to a word ending in soft ce or ge - keep the silent “e”.
(Example: courage + ous = courageous, notice + able = noticeable)

Likewise, when adding a suffix beginning with a consonant to a word ending in silent “e” - keep the silent “e”. (Example: safe + ty = safety, complete + ly = completely)

CHANGE THE “y” TO “i”

- 4. When adding a suffix to a word ending in a y preceded by a consonant - change the “y” to “i”
(Example: lazy + ly = lazily, lonely + ness = loneliness)

“i” BEFORE “e” EXCEPT AFTER “c”

- 5. This rule rhymes! Place “i before e except after c”. Apply this rule to words in which i and e are pronounced as ee. (Example: brief, chief, achieve, believe, receive, receipt, yield, brief, thief)

“E” BEFORE “I”

- 6. In words where the pronunciation of “ei” is a long a— place “e” before “i”.
(Example: reign, sleigh, weight, neighbor, freight)

QUOTATION MARK

Quotation marks are most commonly used to enclose speaker's exact words, and to set apart words that are discussed.

EXAMPLE: a) Our teacher then asked, "Would you like to go outside today?" (direct quotation)

b) The word "thunderstorm" often brings fear among the very young in our group.

COLON

A colon introduces a list, a direct quotation, and the end portion of a sentence that is an explanation. It is used after an introductory classification, after the salutation in a formal letter and between numbers in time.

EXAMPLE: a) The following items were bought at the pharmacy: pop, newspaper, and a bottle of hair shampoo. b) I learned the following: I was too old and run down to compete. c) He immediately replied by saying: "I am completely innocent." d) Her actions made me think of one thing: revenge! e) Dear Lucas: e) Being out in the sun made me think of only one thing: water! f) 3:30 PM

An apostrophe is used to show ownership (possessives—singular and plural), period of time and a sum of money. It also acts as a place holder for a missing letter. In addition, it is used to construct a contraction.

EXAMPLE: a) Laura's tennis racquet b) today's proverb d) three dollar's worth of sunflower seeds
b) anyone's guess e) don't, can't

SEMICOLON

A semicolon is used to expand or lengthen an original thought and separate clauses in a written sentence.

EXAMPLE: a) My latest attempt to cross the ocean failed; it was a total disaster indeed!

b) The excitement was steadily building; I began to run as I kept my eyes on the road.

PERIOD, EXCLAMATION, QUESTION MARK

All correctly written sentences end with either a period, exclamation mark or a question mark. A period is used at the end of a normal sentence. It is similarly written at the end of abbreviations, initials and as a decimal point. Use an exclamation mark to mark the end of sentences in which the writer is attempting to express strong feelings. A question mark is used after a direct question and to indicate doubt about the accuracy of something.

A comma is used to separate a series of phrases, clauses and words in a sentence; in dates; addresses, to set off interruptions/expressions and interjections, direct address of one person by another and also in writing of letters.

EXAMPLE: a) In his bag we found the racquets, the tape, and a can of tennis balls. b) January 1, 2001.

c) 134 Sunset Drive, New Village, Australia d) I was excited, nevertheless, I tried not to show emotion. e) Laura, come here! f) Dear Paul,

PARTS OF SPEECH

ADJECTIVE

Word that modifies, and describes a noun.

Example: The old woman held in her hand a red scarf.

ADVERB

Word that describes another adverb, verb or adjective. An adverb tells how, why, when, where and in what manner an action takes place. Many adverbs end in -ly. Words such as very, not and always are also adverbs.

Example: (The boy ran continuously as his friend patiently followed along on his bike. He always arrives to class late.)

CONJUNCTION

Word that joins, connects or links other words. Two types of conjunctions should be noted.

Coordinating Conjunction: - connects sentence parts equal in rank, single words, clauses and phrases (and, but, yet, or, nor, for, so, both, not only, either and neither are very common and easily recognizable conjunctions)

Example: (Play now but after supper you will need to continue with your studies.)

Subordinating Conjunction: - joins two clauses, to make a more complex sentence. The joining word is the one that expresses a relationship between two ideas that are not equal in rank. Some examples are: after, although, as if, as long as, as soon as, because, before, even though, if, once, since, until, that, where, when, while, etc.

Example: We played tennis until the night lights were turned off.

NOUN

Word that names a person, place or a thing.

Proper Noun: a word that names specific people, places and things and is capitalized.

Example: (Leah, Brampton, Monday, Christmas.)

Common Noun: are the words naming general things - Example: (brother, car, girl, bat, pencil, coin)

PRONOUN

Word used in place of a noun (I, you, he, she, it, we and they)

Example: They decided to paint it as soon as we came to help.

PREPOSITION

Word that shows how a noun or pronoun relate to another word (into, at, behind, above, before, near, toward, under, and beside) They often indicate position.

Example: He threw his racquet at the fence.

VERB

Word that shows action or state of being. Example: He ran into the forest because he was scared..
